

KMHS male Assistant Principal allegedly uses “Chokehold” on female student!!! Source Report by Robert A. Williams

A trusted source reported that Kings Mountain High School Assistant Principal Dustin Morehead, in the process of breaking up a “cat-fight” between two small-framed female KMHS students, used an illegal “chokehold” on one of the female students. This happened this very morning, March 1, 2022. I am also told that there are entries on Facebook regarding this very matter.

So far, I have received NO reports regarding:

- ☐Whether or not the School Resource Officer was involved
- ☐Whether or not CCS School Board policies were violated
- ☐Whether or not any disciplinary actions have been taken against the KM Assistant Principal, Mr. Morehead, or the two girls that were fighting.
- ☐Whether or not any criminal arrest warrants or civil complaints have been taken against anybody

Stay tuned folks. When I receive additional information, I will forward that information on to you.

Note that a previous “skirmish” between an autistic Kings Mountain female high school student and a KM Policeman Resource Officer resulted in a lawsuit against CCS that caused Cleveland County Schools to have to “settle” with the girl’s family for well into six figures$. That may be an article for another day.
